Expertise Overview

Before joining the Smith Freed Eberhard team, Amanda worked as a law clerk for both the Oregon Department of Justice in the Appellate Division and Luvaas Cobb in Eugene, Oregon. Amanda competed on UO Law's Moot Court Oral Arguments Team, served as a student member of the scholarship committee, and was honored to be selected as the student commencement speaker at UO Law's 2025 J.D. and LLM ceremony.

Before law school, Amanda had a career as a traveling corporate meeting planner, specializing in group incentive travel and conferences.

Personal Life

Amanda made Portland her home in late 2025. Oregon is the seventh state she has lived in. Originally from Florida, she went on to live in Maryland, New Jersey, Wyoming, and Massachusetts before heading to California to work as a deckhand on a tall ship. She called San Diego and Santa Barbara home for nearly 15 years, until a desire for a career change brought her to law school in Eugene, Oregon.

The splendor of the Pacific Northwest is what has kept her here. She continues to marvel at how vibrant and green Oregon is. In the summer, you'll find her happily enjoying lakes and rivers with friends.

In her free time, Amanda enjoys board games, arts and crafts, and the occasional karaoke night.
